Preparing to meet Department of Defense reconnaissance demands worldwide in the 21st century and beyond, the Global Hawk Unmanned Aerial Vehicle, with a 116-foot wingspan, can fly as high as 65,000 feet and range up to 13,500 nautical miles from home base to give theater commanders vital, near-real-time information about enemy resources and movements. Now involved in flight testing at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif.

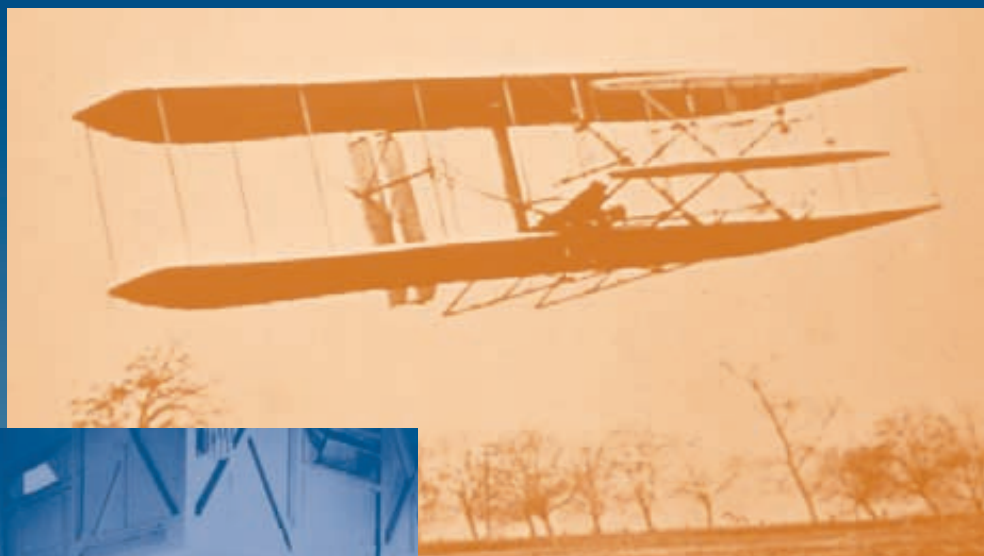

ON THE COVER: Airborne Laser (ABL)—Artist's concept

The Airborne Laser system will—for the first time—provide an airborne early defense against such missiles as SCUDs by destroying them in the boost phase. The Air Force program would mount a chemical laser aboard a modified Boeing 747-400F freighter. The system would generate a laser beam that would be fired at launching missiles from a rotating turret in the nose of the aircraft.

Welcome to Wright-Patterson

One of the largest and most important bases in the United States
Air Force.

Wright-Patterson...

- the birthplace, home, and future of aerospace
- is managed and maintained by Aeronautical Systems Center, the Air Force organization responsible for developing, acquiring, and sustaining the world's best aerospace systems.
- is in many measures the largest, most diverse and organizationally complex base in the Air Force. Missions range from acquisition and logistics management, to research and development, education, flight operations, and many other defense related activities.
- is home to the foremost aeronautical and aerospace research organization in the Air Force, the Air Force Research Laboratory.
- has a workforce numbering approximately 19,000 people, making it the fifth largest employer in the state of Ohio and the largest employer at a single location. Nearly 12,000 of these people are civilians.
- supports more than 125 organizations here and at separate locations in a nine state area representing a host of Air Force and DoD missions.
- including the Air Force Institute of Technology which trains thousands of students each year and the Air Force Museum which receives more than one million visitors a year.
- has some of the finest family oriented recreational programs in the Air Force.
- has a very modern commissary-base exchange complex with nearly four acres under one roof, making it one of the Air Force's largest and best.
- has approximately 1,530 facilities on base.
- pays out nearly $2.39 million in salaries every day of the year—a payroll of approximately $871 million annually.
- has the second largest medical center in the Air Force.
- employs almost 1 of every 20 people working in the greater Dayton area.

WELCOME TO WRIGHT-PATTERSON

The past, present and future at Wright-Patterson AFB are all inextricably linked with the Wright brothers' legacy. The stories of the brother's early years, their bicycle shop, their printing business and their early aviation efforts are in evidence throughout the greater Dayton area.

The Wright brothers called Dayton, Ohio, home and Daytonians have long since called their city the "Birthplace of Aviation." It was here in 1904 and 1905 on the Huffman Prairie Flying Field where the Wright brothers (in their own words) "really learned to fly." Today, just off the end of runway 23, a marker, sign and replica of the Wright brothers' 1905 hangar and catapult launcher commemorate the exact location of the brother's early aviation accomplishments. Here, they flew the first turn, circle, and figure eight. The brothers returned to Huffman Prairie in 1910 and operated a flying school until 1916. Among their 119 students were Henry "Hap" Arnold who commanded the Army Air Forces in World War II and H. Roy Brown, the Canadian ace who was credited with shooting down the Red Baron in World War I. Huffman Prairie Flying Field is part of the Aviation Heritage National Historic Park and is open to the public.

The military presence began here in 1917 when Wilbur Wright Field was opened on the site of today's flightline to train pilots, armories, and gunners during World War I. A depot also began operating here. Aviation research and development continued to flourish as well. First at McCook Field near what is now the intersection of State Route 4 and Interstate 75, then at Wright Field which opened in 1927 on land donated by the community.

Wilbur Wright Field and the depot area became Patterson Field on July 6, 1931 in honor of Lt. Frank Patterson, who was killed in a flightline crash while conducting a test flight in 1918. In 1948, Wright and Patterson fields were merged to create Wright-Patterson AFB.

Today, as in the early 1900s, Wright-Patterson is where weapons systems of the future are conceived, modified, and tested until worthy of acceptance as part of the most responsive force in the history of military aviation.

Birthplace—Home and Future of aerospace. That's what Wright-Patterson is about. The heritage of a legendary past spurs aerospace acquisition specialists, scientists and engineers, and logisticians, educators and trainers to "keep 'm flying," faster, higher, farther and safer than man has ever flown before.

Arrival On Base

Gate 12A

Arrival On Base

There is one 24-hour arrival point for military personnel who are newcomers on Wright-Patterson AFB. Information will be provided concerning your sponsor and unit orderly room, temporary billeting and meals. All unaccompanied enlisted members in need of above information, all officers and accompanied enlisted should report to the VOQ, Bldg. 825, 257-3451, using Gate 12A.

Persons intending to use the Temporary Lodging Facility should report to the Visiting Officers' Quarters, Bldg. 825, Area A, to register when they arrive on base.

Dormitories

Wright-Patterson has five permanent dormitories housing 76 people each. All are located in Kittyhawk Center.

To live off base, an airman must have permission from his or her squadron commander and the base housing office.

Your Car

All military and civilian employees stationed here must register their motor vehicles.

Military and civilian base employees must register their vehicles at either the Pass and Registration Office, Bldg. 286, Area A, 257-3996; the Visitor's Center, Bldg. 818, Area A, 257-5308, or the Visitor Center, Bldg. 58, Area B, 255-7251.

The vehicle registration decal can either be placed on the lower left outside corner of the vehicle windshield or on the lower left corner of the front bumper of conventional four-wheel motor vehicles. The Wright-Patterson AFB installation tab is placed at the bottom of the decal and the expiration year tab is placed on the right side and month expiration tab on the left side of the vehicle registration decal. You must have a valid state driver's license, government ID card, current state registration form, and proof of emission testing to receive a DoD decal. Personnel must register their vehicles within 72 hours of arriving at the base.

There is designated parking on base. Signs and curb markings indicate parking limits. Visitors should use the parking spaces marked "visitor" or "time-limit."

If you are new to the state, you'll want to note that you can turn right on red. Drivers of motor vehicles in Ohio (and on base) may turn right when facing a steady red traffic signal, unless a sign is posted prohibiting the turn. Drivers may cautiously enter the intersection after coming to a complete stop at the red light. Drivers must yield to pedestrians in the crosswalk and to other traffic lawfully using the intersection.

Military personnel and their dependents are not required to obtain an Ohio driver's license or license plates if they are properly licensed in their home states.

Military personnel who desire Ohio license plates should take a copy of their Leave and Earnings Statement to their orderly room, as proof of legal residency in another state, and get a motor vehicle county tax exemption certificate. This certificate will save you $5 when you buy your tags. The next step is to contact the clerk of courts in the Ohio county where you live or call 879-0252 to determine where to take the car for inspection and other necessary steps to obtain an Ohio title. Once the title is transferred, you may purchase Ohio plates at various local establishments.

Civilian personnel must obtain both an Ohio driver's license and plates within 30 days after establishing residence in the state.

Aeronautical Systems Center

Aeronautical Systems Center (ASC), is the Air Force center responsible for developing, acquiring, modernizing and sustaining the world's best aerospace systems and related equipment for the Air Force and the warfighter. The largest product center in Air Force Materiel Command, ASC manages a budget of approximately $9.9 billion, or close to 12 percent of the annual Air Force budget. ASC has a work force of more than 9,600 people located here at Wright-Patterson, at Brooks Air Force Base, Texas, and smaller detachments around the country.

Appropriately located in the "Birthplace of Aviation," where the Wright brothers grew up and first learned to fly, ASC and its predecessors have been planning, building, testing and modifying aircraft since the days of the Army Air Corps. For nine decades, this center has built one of the most responsive deterrent forces in the history of military aviation. And although the Air Force and center have changed dramatically over that time, its goals and vision have not. The ASC workforce remains committed to that excellence in weapon systems which has made us the birthplace, home and future of aerospace.

To perform its mission, ASC is organized around a core acquisition work force, and also includes the 88th Air Base Wing, which manages "housekeeping" functions for the base; the 311th Human Systems Wing at Brooks Air Force Base, which performs "human centered" research and development; and the 74th Medical Group, which operates the Wright-Patterson Medical Center.

ASC also maintains its historically symbiotic relationship with the Air Force Research Laboratory, whose headquarters and Wright Research Site are located here. This relationship helps to set the research agenda and ensures a continuous flow of critical advanced technology for the weapon systems ASC develops and acquires.

ASC's priorities include strengthening the operational forces responding to today's hot spots around the globe and modernizing aerospace forces for tomorrow's combat requirements. To accomplish these priorities, the acquisition work force is staffed with experts in areas such as program management, engineering, planning, contracting, finance, modeling and simulation, and training. The center manages weapon system development for such advanced aircraft as the F-22, F-117, F-16 and F-15 fighters; B-2 and B-1B bombers; C-17; T-6A trainer; and two unmanned aerial reconnaissance vehicles, Global Hawk and Predator. The acquisition team is also making major contributions to development of the Joint Strike Fighter. Over the years ASC's expert acquisition team has developed every fighter, bomber, cargo, reconnaissance and trainer aircraft currently in the inventory.

ASC is the only center in the Air Force with all the organic or "in house" expertise and facilities necessary to manage design, test, assembly and support for any aspect of modern combat aircraft. Together, these experts provide combat ready weapon systems and related support to planners and operational users from U.S. Air Force operational commands, other military services and government agencies, and selected foreign governments. They concentrate on producing superior military capabilities at an affordable cost, helping the Air Force maintain its core capabilities—air and space superiority, global attack, rapid global mobility, precision engagement, information superiority, and agile combat support.

88th Air Base Wing

The 88th Air Base Wing supports all organizations located on Wright-Patterson and services many other defense organizations in Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, and Kentucky. Its functions correspond to the government of a medium-sized community. Wing people take care of more than 8,000 acres and nearly 1,600 buildings including base housing, tend the grounds and environment, maintain roads, and provide utilities, police, and fire protection. The wing orders supplies, furnishes transportation, performs judicial services, manages numerous recreational activities, and administers a wealth of people services. Its technicians oversee communication and computer networks, to include vital defense supercomputers. In addition to supervising records for the work force, the 88th Air Base Wing operates a runway complex that handles 40,000 takeoffs and landings a year. The wing also operates an aerial port of embarkation which deploys military assets throughout the world. The wing hosted the Balkan Proximity Peace Talks in 1995 where the Dayton Treaty was negotiated.

In 2000, the wing spent more than $770 million in the 14-county area surrounding the base on contracts for construction, supplies, equipment, and services in support of Wright-Patterson. In all, the base has an overall economic impact on the surrounding community of $2.1 billion.

Wing headquarters is located in Morris Hall, Bldg. 10, Area C.

Air Force Research Laboratory

From virtual reality to laser-propelled space vehicles, the Air Force Research Laboratory, headquartered at Wright-Patterson AFB, breaks technology barriers in its quest to provide the United States Air Force the upper-hand in aerospace battles.

Air Force Research Laboratory, with headquarters at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio, was created in October 1997. The laboratory was formed through the consolidation of four former Air Force laboratories and the Air Force Office of Scientific Research.

The lab employs approximately 5,400 government people, including about 1,300 military and 4,100 civilian personnel. It is responsible for the Air Force's science and technology budget of nearly $1.4 billion including basic research, applied research, and advanced technology development, and an additional $1.1 billion from AFRL customers.

The laboratory and its predecessors have overseen more than 80 years of critical research efforts for the Air Force and DoD. Its technology breakthroughs can be found in all of today's modern aircraft and weapons systems, including the F-117 stealth fighter,

B-2 bomber, C-17 airlifter and the F-22 fighter. It was contributed to significant advancements in modern communications, electronics, manufacturing, and medical research and products.

The lab is organized along 10 technology disciplines, plus an office for managing national and international basic research. Each discipline is assigned to a single directorate, which has the responsibility to perform, procure and synthesize basic research, exploratory technology development and advanced technology development in that research area. The directorates and their units are located across the United States, five of which are headquartered at Wright-Patterson. AFRL has five additional directorates located across the United States: Air Force Office of Scientific Research headquartered in Arlington, Va.; Directed Energy Directorate headquartered at Kirtland AFB, N.M.; Information Directorate headquartered at Rome, N.Y.; Munitions Directorate headquartered at Eglin AFB, Fla.; and Space Vehicles Directorate headquartered at Kirtland AFB, N.M.

Air Vehicles Directorate

The Air Vehicles Directorate leads the effort to develop and transition superior technology solutions that enable dominant military aerospace vehicles. (AFMC) Headquarters is located in Gillmore Hall Bldg. 262, Area A. AFMC directs a highly professional and skilled command work force of about 88,604 military and civilian employees. The command's emphasis on "high technology" makes it the Air Force's largest employer of scientists and engineers. AFMC also employs the most Air Force civilians, about 60,054 and has 7,575 officers and 18,703 enlisted and 2,316 Air Force reserve people. This work force operates major product centers, laboratories, test centers and logistics centers throughout the United States.

The AFMC mission is to develop, deliver and sustain the best products for the world's best Air Force. It is the Air Force's largest command in terms of employees and funding, and manages 49 percent of the total Air Force budget.

AFMC researches, develops, tests, acquires, delivers and logistically supports every Air Force weapon system and other military (non-weapon) systems. Weapons systems, such as planes and missiles, are developed and acquired through its four product centers, using science and technology from four major laboratories. The systems are tested in AFMC's three test centers, and then are serviced and receive major repairs over their lifetimes at the command's five air logistics centers. Many other developments and logistics functions are handled in the command's specialized centers. Finally, aircraft and missiles are "retired" in AFMC's Arizona desert facility, the Aerospace Maintenance and Regeneration Center.

AFMC works closely with its customers, the operational commands, to ensure each has the most capable aircraft, missiles and support equipment possible. AFMC also provides support to other U.S. military forces and allies as well as handles major aerospace responsibilities for the DoD. These include research, development, testing and evaluation of satellites, boosters, space probes and associated systems needed to support specific NASA projects.

Education and Training Flight

The Education and Training Flight (88 MSS/DPE), in Bldg. 70, Area C, is responsible for the purchase and delivery of military and civilian training and education. Specialists in the Program Management Section (DPEP) serve as the focal point for training funds (acquisition and non-acquisition funds as well as limited military funds). Specialists possess the authority to contract for training, register students, and certify payment. The Operations Section (DPEO) works with individuals and organizations to identify training sources to satisfy requirements, and maintains appropriate databases and information systems. They manage the Web-based Education and Training Management System (ETMS-Web) which is a tool to identify training requirements, build individual development plans, allocate quotas, and record training completions.

The Education Services Section (DPEE) offers counseling and information on educational opportunities to military members and their dependents. The office also provides registration and financial assistance to military members. Educational opportunities range from basic skills through graduate university degrees either in the local area or on base. Counselors advise military members regarding their eligibility for degree programs, tuition assistance, in-service benefits through the Veterans Administration, officer-commissioning programs, permissive TDY under Operation Bootstrap, educational deferments, correspondence courses, and college-level testing.

The Training Delivery section (DPET) manages the development and delivery of training programs. The current curriculum for the computer training element located in Bldg. 110, Area C, includes Microsoft Office 97 applications. The current curriculum of organizational personal development training, located in Bldg. 125, Area B, covers administration, communication, management, and quality courses.

The Distance Learning Center (DLC) in Room 2415, Bldg. 125, Area B, provides education and training without the physical presence of an instructor. The DLC offers an integrated set of training products, services, software and equipment, covering a broad range of topics from communication skills to computer programming courses. The DLC administers the Air Force Computer Based Training (CBT) Program consisting of over 750 computer programming, networking and application courses.

Current class schedules and course descriptions may be found on the Education and Training Flight Home Page at www.asc.wpafb.af.mil/edu-trng/index.html. Interested individuals should contact their organization's training focal point or unit training manager and work with their supervisor to enter course requirements into ETMS-Web.

Nightingale and Fisher Houses

The Wright-Patterson Medical Center's Compassionate Care Facilities offer low-cost, comfortable lodging where families can be together in times of crisis.

Each facility offers a quality "home-away-from-home" which is staffed by a full-time house manager and a team of trained and sensitive volunteers. The staff frequently deals with the unique concerns of family members confronted with a critical illness.

The facilities are open to active duty, retired, reserve and guard families. Priority is based strictly on the illness and distance traveled.

For additional information, contact the compassionate care office at (937) 257-0855 or DSN 787-0855.

USAF Medical Center

Wright-Patterson USAF Medical Center (WPMC) is one of the Department of Defense's largest medical centers. It has one of the highest satisfaction ratings in the United States and is fully accredited by the Joint Commission of Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations. The main complex is located in Bldg. 830, Area A with other areas as follows: Occupational Medicine, Bioenvironmental Engineering, Hearing Conservation Diagnostics Center, Urinalysis Testing Center, Bldg. 40, Area B, and Region V Offices, Bldg. 6.

WPMC serves nearly 60,000 beneficiaries living in and around Dayton and is the major military medical center for 600,000 beneficiaries in a seven-state region. TRICARE was implemented May 1, 1998 and in 16 months 40,000 beneficiaries joined Wright-Patterson's TRICARE Prime. Prime guarantees quick access to high-quality medical care. As an added service, those 65 years and older can join Wright-Patterson Gold allowing them to enjoy similar primary care accessibility as TRICARE Prime.

Professional education is a key mission element of the medical center. Physician training is conducted in conjunction with the Wright State University School of Medicine, located in Fairborn. More than 230 resident physicians, including 100 military physicians, are trained annually. Training at the medical center is coordinated with six area hospitals in psychiatry, emergency medicine, obstetrics/gynecology, pediatrics, surgery and internal medicine. Postgraduate clinical training also is available for resident dentists, clinical psychologists, nurse anesthetists, nurses and specialty physicians' assistants.

Through an aggregate volunteer program, over 76,000 hours are donated annually by personnel from six separate groups: the American Red Cross, Retiree Activities Program, Masonic Services Association, People and Animals Working and Sharing (PAWS), Medical Center Chapel and the Nightingale/Fisher House.

Unlike many other downsized military training facilities, WPMC will be able to handle the vast majority of your family's health care needs in-house.

Centerville & Washington Township

Centerville, founded in 1796, is one of the oldest communities in Ohio. The heart of the city has been designated as an architectural preservation district to retain and maintain its historic heritage. From its early beginning as a small cross road and stage-coach-stop farming community, Centerville is now a high quality, modern residential community.

Centerville is located in Washington Township in the southern half of Montgomery County, about six miles south of Dayton. Although the city and township are separate political entities, they are often viewed as a single residential community and together they cover nearly 32 square miles.

The 1990 census reported Centerville population at approximately 23,000 with 26,000 living in unincorporated Washington Township.

An extensive choice of housing is offered. From a small efficiency apartment or condo to a large luxury house with the average price of houses $150,000 in a range from $75,000 to $750,000+. The art of living is fine and

Dayton

Dayton has long been known to the world for the history-impacting innovations born here, from Wilbur and Orville Wright's flying machines and the automobile to the poems of Paul Lawrence Dunbar and the witty writings of Erma Bombeck.

Today, Dayton's cooperative spirit is still alive in the nearly one million Greater Miami Valley residents who live, work and play in the city. From vibrant downtown Dayton to its charming, unique neighborhoods, citizens are working together to make the city a friendly, safe and progressive place to call home.

Hard work has paid off. Dayton can boast of its award-winning, internationally recognized arts programs, including the Dayton Opera, the Dayton Philharmonic Orchestra, the Victoria Theatre, The Dayton Ballet and the Dayton Contemporary Dance Theatre. Several museums are located in Dayton as well, including the Dayton Art Institute, the High Street Gallery, the Dayton Visual Arts Center and the Dayton Museum of Natural History.

Residents, business and government work hand-in-hand in the city's 65 neighborhoods to create affordable, attractive housing. Dayton's neighborhood system is a strong one, guided by a long-established network of Priority Boards, neighborhood associations and watch groups. Whether you want a beautiful vintage home in one of

Carrillon Park

Dayton's historic districts, a modern home in a new development, a starter home on a quaint tree-lined street or a downtown condo at The Landing, Dayton offers a neighborhood for virtually every taste and price range. In addition, the neighborhood festivals, clean-up projects, picnics and special events make the areas much more than places to live, but friendly places to call home. Neighbors can also boast of a unique magnet-school program in its public school system and the academic excellence of the University of Dayton, the largest private university in Ohio and one of the 10-largest Catholic universities in the nation.

Those who work, live and play here have joined forces to revitalize downtown Dayton. Several recent projects add to the growth and safety of downtown, including the refurbishing of Main Street, working to bring 1,000 jobs to downtown every year and the development of a 10-Point Safety Plan program.

At the heart of the city is the Courthouse Square, a popular gathering spot for downtown workers, shoppers and visitors. Throughout the week food vendors, lunchers and shoppers fill the square to soak in the sun, meet with friends and enjoy the noontime entertainment often taking place. The spot also boasts various holiday celebrations and many of the city's special events. For evening entertainment, dine at one of over 50 restaurants or enjoy live rock, soul, blues, jazz, rap and folk music or outrageous comedy at one of the many bars and clubs which showcase both local and national groups.

The city maintains nine parks, each offering a variety of recreational amenities, including playgrounds and play equipment, baseball and soccer fields, tennis and volleyball courts, bike paths, and walking trails.

Englewood's Centennial Park recently added a water sculpture feature—the first of its kind in the state of Ohio—for children to splash around in. A park with fishing lakes is currently under development. The City is also home to Englewood MetroPark, a 2,000-acre nature reserve offering hiking trails, fishing, and horseback riding. Adjacent Englewood is the Aullwood Audubon Center, a wildlife conservation area operated by the National Audubon Society.

Englewood is less than 30 minutes from some of the finest colleges and universities in Ohio, including the University of Dayton, Wright State University, and Sinclair Community College.

The city operates under a council/manager form of government adopted by charter in 1970. Highly skilled and trained professionals provide fire and police protection 24 hours a day. Englewood's Police Department is nationally accredited by the Commission on Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies—the only police department in the Northmont community to earn this distinction. The city's fire and rescue department is a member of the Miami Valley Fire and EMS Alliance and part of an Automatic Mutual Aid Response.

Miamisburg

Historic charm... modern living. That's the trademark of Miamisburg today.

From the Adena Indian mound that remains virtually intact from its origins as an ancient burial site, to a historic downtown area that is the focus of revitalization efforts, Miamisburg is a community steeped in tradition.

Kettering Parks

But don't be confused to think that our appreciation for the past represents a lack of vision for the future. On the contrary, city leaders in the last three decades have been proponents of well-planned growth and progressive policies.

The city of Miamisburg is a full-service community with an experienced staff of professionals dedicated to serving nearly 20,000 residents. Our local government features 24-hour-a-day police and fire/EMS protection, modern water and sewer facilities, economic development expertise and other quality municipal services. Outstanding parks and recreation facilities such as Sycamore Trails Aquatic Center, Pipe-Stone and Mound public golf courses, a fully staffed Senior Adult Center, and baseball and soccer field complexes enhance the quality of life for residents and attract visitors to the community.

From a business standpoint, Miamisburg is the best known as the site of a former federal government defense production facility. The U.S. Department of Energy is decommissioning its "Mound" site and plans to exit within the next 10 years. At that time, the entire 305-acre complex will revert to private and commercial use. Efforts to transition Mound to a light industrial/technology park are well underway, with over 30 private businesses already operating there.

In addition, the Byers Road/Lyons Road area has become a popular business corridor in the last decade, it offering a variety of office and light industrial opportunities with convenient freeway access.

The award-winning Miamisburg City School District is a source of great pride in our community and has earned significant recognition in recent years for its outstanding performance. In 2000, Anna K. Wantz Middle School became the second district school in the last three years chosen as a national Blue Ribbon School of Excellence.

Miamisburg today is a vibrant, suburban community poised to meet the challenges ahead in the 21st century. For more information, call 866-3303.

New Carlisle

Established in 1840, New Carlisle is positioned at the crossroads of State Route 235, which runs south to Xenia and north to Bellefontaine, and State Route 571, which transverses west towards Greenville. U.S. 40, scenic "Old National Trail," is only two miles south, which will take the history buff from Baltimore to Los Angeles. Within five minutes of Interstate 70 and 675, and about eight miles from Interstate 75, we are poised for growth along the "I-70 corridor."

We are surrounded by Honey Creek, which winds and lingers a while on our north and east borders before crossing 235 and heading west to Tipp City and the Miami River. A fertile and ancient river bottom, the area surrounding New Carlisle has been for many years an agricultural focused town and has been referred to as a "bedroom community." There are no large manufacturing concerns nearby Dayton, 17 miles to the south. This is possibly due to the access and partly due to the strong agricultural roots of the landowners who boost many generations as stewards of the land. While we are a small "growing" community that embraces a slower pace, we are progressive and welcome new members to our community.

We are served by many denominations of churches, a YMCA just south of town, several parks, baseball diamonds, a golf course and a municipal pool. Just to the west across the county line is beautiful spring fed Silver Lake Beach Park where there are cabins, camping, picnicking and water sports to enjoy.

New Carlisle Airport, home of the "Flying Angels" is just one-half mile east on 571. Astronaut Virgil "Gus" Grissom was a member of the "Flying Angels" when he was stationed at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base in the 1950s. New Carlisle now hosts an "airplane parade" each 4th of July, showcasing vintage planes.

There are several service clubs such as the American Legion Post 286, a 500+ member organization with a very active Women's Legion Auxiliary, Sertoma, fraternal, preservation and business organizations like the Masonic Temple F&AM, the Community Choir, Historical Society and the New Carlisle Area Chamber of Commerce to mention a few.

For more information of the New Carlisle area, contact the New Carlisle Area Chamber of Commerce, (937) 845-3911 or call the Municipal Manager's Office at (937) 845-9492.

Oakwood

In 1913, Oakwood was primarily farmland situated on a hill directly south of Dayton. That year a disastrous flood inundated downtown Dayton and a new kind of advertising began to appear. It reminded potential landowners that Oakwood's property was "275 feet" higher than the intersection at Third and Main Streets in Dayton. Thus began the period of biggest growth in Oakwood's history.

By 1930, Oakwood had 6,000 people. Numbered among its inhabitants was Orville Wright, co-inventor of the heavier-than-air flying machine. His stately home known as Hawthorn Hill still occupies the corner of Harman and Park Avenues.

Since Oakwood is now entirely surrounded by the cities of Dayton and Kettering, the city has reached its maximum size of almost three square miles. With 98 percent of the city in residential use, the population of 9,000 persons has remained relatively constant in the last 20 years. Most Oakwood housing is available in the $95,000 to $275,000 range. Estate homes can range up to $5 million in cost. A variety of rentals are available including apartment buildings, converted duplexes in older homes, conventional duplexes, and single-family homes.

Outdoor attractions such as Smith Gardens, Elizabeth Gardens, Loy Gardens, Houk Stream, community parks and tennis courts provide citizens with a wide range of activities.

In 1991, the United States Department of Education named Oakwood High School a "National School of Excellence."

For additional information, contact The City of Oakwood Municipal Bldg., 30 Park Avenue, Dayton, Ohio 45419, or call (937) 298-0600.

Piqua

Legend has it that an ancient Indian tribe gave Piqua its unique name after the tribe had burned an enemy warrior in a ritual ceremony. The warrior rose from the ashes of his body, and the amazed Indians exclaimed, "Otahewagh-pw-qua," translated as, "He is risen from the ashes."

The city of Piqua is located in West Central Ohio, 18 minutes north of Dayton International Airport. Piqua is the largest city in Miami County with a population in excess of 22,000. North-south Interstate 75 bisects the community and east-west Interstate 70 is just 20 miles to the south. East-west U.S. Route 36 runs through the city.

The Miami-Erie Canal is an important part of Piqua's history. The canal was opened to Piqua in 1837, and was the super-highway of its time. Today many parts of the original canal are preserved. A canal boat, the General Harrison, still takes visitors on a mule-drawn ride over more than a mile of the canal.

Piqua is small enough that bank tellers and grocery cashiers can greet their customers by name and big enough to offer an exciting lifestyle while still holding on to the sense of community and belonging. Ornate Victorian manors, contemporary and traditional homes, efficiency apartments, and luxury condominiums are just some of the housing choices available in Piqua. Country living does not mean a long drive to downtown Piqua. A ten-minute drive, in any direction, from downtown Piqua will bring one to a rambling farmhouse or a modern ranch house.

Sidney

Gracious living has long been a part of the traditions of Sidney and the surrounding communities of Shelby County. The variety of homes and residential neighborhoods speaks eloquently of an area that accommodates a generous number of life-styles. There is not only a variety of housing here, but it's plentiful and affordable. Unlike many areas of the country where real estate costs have skyrocketed, Sidney has maintained a stable housing market with prices well below the national average and, because the area has always attracted many capable craftsmen, workmanship in both older and newly constructed homes is exceptionally good.

The city is run by a council/manager form of government adopted by charter. Sidney's government is a well-run, responsive organization providing a full range of services to its citizens, including full-time professional fire, paramedic and police protection. Wilson Memorial Hospital, the county's only acute care facility, has a modern 112-bed hospital and Occupational Health Center.

Over 60 churches of various denominations are included in Sidney and the Shelby County area.

Shelby County contains eight public school districts, one parochial school, one private school, and a school for students who are mentally retarded and developmentally disabled. There are a total of 16 colleges within 50 miles of downtown Sidney. These include 10, four-year institutions, two branch campuses of state universities, two technical schools and two community colleges.

While manufacturing and agriculture provide the majority of the jobs in Sidney and Shelby counties, there are plenty of places to relax. From bowling to cross country skiing, the Sidney-Shelby County area provides residents an exceptional quality of life. There are many public parks offering a wide variety of activities, an exceptional YMCA, a new municipal swimming pool,

Beaver Creek countryside

Lake Loramie State Park and two golf courses.

For further information on Sidney or Shelby County, contact the Sidney-Shelby County Chamber of Commerce, 100 South Main Street, Suite 201, Sidney, Ohio 45365, call (937) 492-9122, or fax (937) 498-2472.

Spring Valley

Nestled in the hills of southern Greene County is Spring Valley, founded in 1850. This tree-lined village is the home of the Potato Festival, the first full weekend of October. In 1995 the ribbon was cut on the Little Miami scenic Trail which crosses its Main Street and is now the site for biking, jogging, rollerblading, horseback riding, and hiking. Nature abounds in beauty and preserved wetlands as the Little Miami River winds its way through farm fields and valley. Other recreational facilities surround the village including Walton Park, constitution park, Spring Valley Frontier campground, Spring Valley Wildlife Area and a bustling canoe livery.

Spring Valley has many dedicated service organizations which include the Spring Valley Area Chamber of Commerce, Spring Valley ACTS, Spring Valley Senior Center, Spring Valley Lions, Spring Valley Lioness, Masonic Lodge, Eastern Star, and Spring Valley Community Library.

Several projects are underway to restore historic landmarks. The Town hall, built in 1888, is being renovated for activity in arts and entertainment, with the newly appointed Spring Valley Park District active in this endeavor. The first cement house in Ohio, formerly the George Barrett Home, will become the Town Museum and its extensive renovation is underway.

The current village population is 509 and township residents number 2,400. Spring Valley also has a Township volunteer Fire Department at the edge of the village, and is located at U.S. Route 42 and State Route 725, seven miles from Xenia and seven miles from Waynesville.

Springboro

Travel back in time when you stroll through Old Springboro Village. The eclectic array of specialty shops in Springboro's six-block historic architectural district once housed Quaker families who provided "stations" on the Underground Railroad. From its 1815 founding through the Civil War, village residents hid escaped slaves in cubbyholes and tunnels secreted on their property. The Springboro Historic Society provides walking tour brochures, as well as pre-arranged guided tours for groups.

Two major festivals allow visitors a chance to experience Springboro's history. During the Freedom Festival, the weekend before Memorial Day weekend, costumed interpreters reenact runaway slaves hiding from slave catchers with their handbills and hounds. A Civil War Encampment adds to the experience, and Abe Lincoln himself makes an appearance. Period crafts are demonstrated and offered for sale. Christmas in Historic Springboro, the weekend before Thanksgiving, showcases beautiful Victorian buildings, and old-fashioned hometown parade, period and modern entertainment, food crafts and free horse-drawn wagon rides. In addition, October's Haunted Hot Dog Roast features an open fire for cooking hot dogs and marshmallows to perfection followed by a guided ghost tour of the town.

Springboro is located 14 miles south of Dayton and 37 miles north of Cincinnati at Interstate 75's exit 38. This strategic location allows Springboro residents experience life in a small town, with major city employment, entertainment and conveniences near at hand. Family, community, recreation and quality of life are important to Springboro's growing residential population. Carefully planned subdivisions offer housing from under $100,000 to $500,000+, from quiet wooded residential lots to majestic golf course living. Many new neighborhoods have recreational facilities, and incorporate green space, bike and walking trails into their plans.

Two clean industrial parks, situated away from residential areas, provide jobs and taxes to support the town. Many new businesses relocate into Springboro every year.

Heatherwoode Golf Club, former home of the PGA Nike Miami Valley, draws golfers from far and wide. The Coffman Family YMCA opened in 2000, and before the year's end built an addition to accommodate members who flocked its doors. The Wright Brother's Airport Aviation Museum has a replica of the Wright "B" Flyer, on which you can actually take a short flight.

Springboro's schools are some of the best in the area. Students at three elementary schools, a junior high school and a high school exhibit plenty of "Panther" pride, while receiving a quality education. The community sports programs attract participants to Springboro's beautiful parks.

For more information, contact the Springboro Chamber of Commerce, 325 S. Main St., Springboro, Ohio 45066, call (937) 748-0074, or visit their Web site at www.springboroohio.org.

Springfield has residences in all price ranges. Rentals range from older homes and apartments to new luxury high-rise developments.

There are 180 churches in Springfield of all denominations. The public school system has 14 elementary schools, five middle schools, and two senior high schools. Rhodes Career Center offers 23 different career-training programs. Springfield is home to Wittenberg University as well as Clark State Community College.

Springfield offers "big city" cultural amenities including a subscription series and famous artist series from the Springfield Symphony Orchestra. The Arts Council offers a month-long summer arts festival, arts in the park, and other famous artist offerings. The Ohio Lyric Theatre provides scheduled performances throughout the year, and the Springfield Arts Museum has scheduled showings and art classes.

New to the area is the 1,500-seat performing arts center Clark State Community College's Kuss Auditorium used for classroom instruction and performing arts and community entertainment.

Tipp City

A small town where community pride and caring are still in fashion.

In 1840, John Clark planted the seed that would develop into Tippecanoe City. Situated on the Miami-Erie canal at what is now State Route 571, the town was established to take advantage of the traffic on the canal. Clark named the fledgling city "Tippecanoe" to express his administration for William Henry Harrison whose campaign slogan was "Tippecanoe and Tyler, too."

Preserving its rich architectural legacy is important to the residents of Tipp City. The 89 buildings on the National Register of Historic Places greatly contribute to the quaint charm of the community. The city's historic downtown area offers a variety of retail and service options from antiques and memorabilia, to specialty stores. It offers a truly unique shopping experience.

Proximity to major transportation routes sparked the birth of Tipp City and continues to be the catalyst for the community's growing popularity. Located between two Interstate 75 interchanges, 17 miles north of Dayton and just minutes from the Dayton International Airport, Tipp offers easy access plus an excellent quality of life.

Included in a true quality lifestyle are varied recreational facilities. The city park system has over 80 acres of developed park land. This includes two municipal parks, a pool, canoe livery, nature area and several neighborhood parks. Several golf courses and other recreational amenities are just minutes away.

Youngsters, oldsters and everyone in between are kept as active as they choose with a host of clubs and organizations in which to become involved. Tipp-Monroe Community Services provides community education, recreation, and cultural opportunities for all ages. In the fall, "Mum's the word" as the entire town celebrates the chrysanthemum flower during the annual Mum Festival.

"Outstanding" is the word for Tipp City's schools. Considered to be one of the best school systems in the region, Tipp students consistently score well above average on standardized tests.

Home: nurturing environment; safety; security. Tipp City has many ways to make a home; from houses steeped in history to cozy apartments and convenient condominiums to executive level showcases in country settings.

Troy

Troy is a town with a population base of over 22,000 that combines big business with small town charm. A superb choice for a day's outing, a vacation, or a place to put down roots. Troy is only 20 miles from Dayton and 70 miles from either Cincinnati or Columbus, and is the center of the country's largest ninety-minute air travel market.

Benjamin Overfield built his tavern in Troy in 1808. Today, it stands among many reminders of our heritage. A visit to the Troy Historical Society located at the Troy-Hayner Cultural Center or a trip to the Museum of Troy

History is like a walk into the past, a past which we have built upon, but never forgotten.

One hundred and eighty-nine acres of parkland are just the start of a wealth of recreational opportunities including a public 18-hole golf course, indoor and outdoor pools, tennis, basketball, jogging and biking trails along the river, and the Hobart Arena Skating and Sports Facility.

For education, employment and personal growth, Troy has it all. Troy is also a home to a number of major national and international companies.

Each June, 250,000 people visit the annual Troy Strawberry Festival. Each August the Miami County Fair comes to town, and bands from around the state complete every October in the Troy Marching Band Contest. There's always something to see or do.

Take a walk through Public Square, a stroll along the river, a walk in the woods... all without leaving Troy.

Troy is one-of-a-kind. We think that it's a special place for special people.

Vandalia

In 1838 a group of westward-bound settlers ran into bad weather and low-supplies near what is now the intersection of Dixie Highway and National Road in the center of Vandalia. Even then they recognized the "Crossroads of America" and decided to build their homes there. The title remains very pertinent because the junction of Interstate 75 and Interstate 70 are located within the Vandalia corporation line.

The Dayton International Airport located in Vandalia, serves the entire Dayton area with scheduled flights by eight airlines. The market accessibility and transportation facilities, including railroads, make Vandalia a favorable location for business. Twelve corporations have their headquarters in Vandalia, along with such industries as auto accessories, powered wood-working tools, electronics, tool and die, computer and television parts, construction products, food processors and suppliers, and industries working in research with the Navy and Air Force.

Vandalia is the worldwide headquarters for the Amateur Trapshooting Association and the Trapshooting Hall of Fame. Each August, the Grand American Trapshoot brings more than 8,000 shooters and their families from all over the nation and world to the area.

Vandalia's Sister Cities Club conducts a three-day Oktoberfest with authentic German music, food, drinks and crafts the weekend following Labor Day.

Housing ranges from small homes, apartments and condominiums to elaborate, single-family dwellings.

Many of the buildings date back to the early 1800s and several have been converted into antique and/or specialty shops. Casually strolling the length of Main Street one quickly understands why Waynesville is known as the "Antiques Capital of the Midwest." 35 individual antique shops

Yellow Springs

Yellow Springs is a great place to visit or to live. It is a small town that does not fit easily into standard categories—it is not urban, suburban or rural. Technically a village, with a population of 4,000, it has retained small town charm yet prides itself on a mix of economic, cultural and racial backgrounds.

Situated in the northern section of Greene County, 18 miles east of Dayton, Yellow Springs is an easy commute to Wright-Patterson via Interstate 675 and scenic country roads. Founded in the early 1800s, it quickly became a popular health resort, famous for its curative waters. Now the town is known for its recreational attractions, wonderful downtown shops and dining, and diverse cultural activities. Natural areas extending from the town include the 1,000-acre Glen Helen nature preserve, John Bryan State Park, and Clifton Gorge State Nature Preserve. Flowing through these is the Little Miami River, a designated scenic river and popular canoeing stream.

A portion of the 80+ miles long Little Miami Scenic Trail Bikepath borders the town and draws thousands of visitors to the area. A replica of the town's 1880 train station has been built along the bikepath downtown to provide public restrooms and an information center.

Over 80 businesses are located downtown to serve both residents and tourists. Three major industries are based in Yellow Springs, including the country's largest manufacturer of book-related items.

Yellow Springs has controlled urban sprawl in favor of more planned growth and encourages home-grown businesses to provide its economic independence.

The village has a community center, municipal swimming pool, sports fields, basketball and tennis courts, and a skate park. Eleven churches and religious organizations meet in Yellow Springs. A safe community, the town is well served by its public safety department and trained volunteers who staff the fire and emergency squads. Physicians, dentists and other health specialists practice here. There is also an assisted living facility, along with a skilled nursing home, in town. Four hospitals are available within 12 miles.

An Exempted Village School District allows local control of schools. Yellow Springs combines an excellent staff with volunteers to achieve a rich, integrated and individualized curriculum. Extracurricular strengths include music and sports programs. Local private schools include a federally licensed childcare center and one of the oldest alternative schools in the country. The home of Antioch College, Yellow Springs is within easy commuting of 11 other colleges and universities.

A five-person elected council heads the village government, with an appointed village manager and numerous citizen advisory boards. There is a mayor's court with jurisdiction in civil and criminal cases as provided by Ohio law. The village provides its own public utilities, including electrical power distribution.

Yellow Springs hosts year-round live theater, an acclaimed chamber music series, national and international visiting performers, an extraordinary public school music program, and a movie theater specializing in art and foreign films. There are several art gallery settings as well as performance opportunities for amateurs and professionals. The weekly newspaper, a journal of news and opinion since 1880, is a state and national prizewinner.

Stay In Style!

Life is so hectic; rushing to work, keeping appointments, shopping, weekend events. But now, the gang wants to come over and you've just noticed your furniture seems a bit tired and out-of-style. Transform your living room into an inviting social scene with an elegant collection like this one. Well cushioned with heavily padded roll arms, and fringed scatterback pillows, seat yourself in beautiful comfort. The 93" traditional sofa lifts to a higher level of style on layered bun feet accessorized with nailhead trim and versatile reversible cushions. Comfortably accommodate your guests with the equally luxurious matching chairs and over-sized ottomans. And, there's no need to stop there. Enhance your living area with a variety of entertainment centers, lamps, tables and more from our showrooms! At Rhodes, you will find quality, value, and furniture so appealing, friends will flock to your place to hang out.

IN NEED OF CHILDCARE?

Wright-Patterson's Child Development Program offers the highest quality child care services available for children six weeks through twelve years old. The program is accredited by the National Academy of Early Childhood Programs and Certified by the Department of Defense and the Department of the Air Force. Our goal is to offer children of active duty military and Department of Defense civilians a safe, healthy, and loving environment while away from parents and home. The program offers various services including full-day care, hourly care, after hours care, part-day enrichment, and before-and-after school (BAS) care.

For nearly a century AT&T has helped those on the front line, aboard Navy ships and at bases worldwide stay connected with the people they care about. With leading technology, customized products and services, and partnerships with Military Exchanges, MWR, the USO and many others, our goal is simple: to support the men and women of the Armed Forces. Mission accomplished.
